Sazdo Stanojković-Sašo

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

A book about interpersonal relations

Sazdo Stanojković-Sašo

.

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

(A book about interpersonal relations)

Skopje 2022

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

(A book about interpersonal relations)

Author:
Sazdo Stanojković-Sašo

Recension by:
Dr. Ferid Muhić
Dr. Jordan Plevneš
Dr. Venko Andonovski

Lector:
Martina Janevska

Graphic design of the cover:
Sazdo Stanojković-Sašo

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

– A book about interpersonal relations –

(Short description of the book)

In this book, a wide spectrum of interpersonal relations is shown from psychological, sociological, pedagogical, philosophical, religious and political aspect, which make the basis for strengthening the love in friendships, marriages, families and otherwise among the people, so that the human life would get sense and many unhappy moments it brings would be avoided. About the subjects elaborated in this book we can talk, read and write quite a lot, and still lots of things to remain untold. Those essential and vast topics on interpersonal relations haven't been completely revealed, nor they can be all read about in the entire life. You can easily see that the content of this book is quite unique and original since the many facts, answers and truths haven't been copied from other authors' books, but are a result of the many-year analytical research and practical experience in its author's life as well as of the intuitively acquired information from the universal intelligence. Also, the book is a scientific piece of work since it reveals a lot of new truths and gives answers to many questions and unsolved problems in the field of interpersonal relations, namely – in the verbal and non-verbal communication between the people. We live in a time of deviancy and disordered system of criterions about human values, where the money and material goods are of top importance and are the primary criterion for evaluating a person's quality, especially when it comes to the issue of choosing a new friend or the future spouse. It is a very sad fact that beautiful women are not with the top-quality men in their friendly or marital relations, and also the fact that top-quality men are not the most successful, richest men at the highest social (political or corporate) positions, and are not married to top-quality (beautiful and highly moral) women. Why is in this world everything turned upside-down and why, in general terms, top-quality persons are married to low-quality persons? The world is congested by lies, envy, hate, selfishness, malice and evil in the interpersonal relations, which make people unhappy and ill, thus shortening their lives. There are less and less philanthropes and more and more greedy money-grubbers (acquisitive materialists) who, in order to grab more money, are ready to become what they really aren't and to sell what must never be on sale. There are more and more friendships and marriages based on one's own material interest, and less and less based on mutual love and respect between two persons of same spiritual and emotional frequency and similar levels of personal values, and exactly for this reason unhappiness, hate and evil which result in adultery, divorces, family violence, and even homicides, are a common phenomenon in marriages and friendships. We are all witnesses that evil, envy and hate reign in this world, whereas, unfortunately, true love, humanity and sincerity are less present as true generators of intense and long-lasting person's happiness that gives meaning to human life. The purpose of our lives (our time-limited mandate od existence) is to be as happy as possible and as less happy as possible. Happiness is a beneficial emotional state of joy in a persons' soul, which lasts for a certain period of time. This means that happines is a mosaic of little joys emerging from different sources. In general terms, the majority of the people are more unhappy than happy in their lives. Through verbal and non-verbal communication the people exchange positive or negative energy, at the same time spending part of their own time in a certain space, with the end goal of making true the purpose of their life and existence. Interpersonal relations and contacts either bring the people closer or alienate them. The common denominator of highly moral and quality (positive and healthy) interpersonal relations is love, that true unconditional and mutual love of highly aware (free of excessive ego) personalities. The differences between various nations manifested through the different languages, cultures and customs, are in fact a riches of every society, which embellishes and strengthens interpersonal relations. The people come together intensively when they have a lot of mutual happy moments, and even more when they help each other in times of unhappiness and grief. Joy and happiness of greatest intensity and duration are not produced by material, spiritual or abstract pleasures, but by the positive attitude to other people, i.e. by quality (positive and healthy) interpersonal relations. The mosaic of quality (positive and healthy) interpersonal relations is composed of healthy, quality personalities having high enough level of awareness (personalities free of excessive ego) and bound by the super-glue called unconditional love. The essential message of this book's author to its readers is that humanity can elude self-destruction only by achieving high enough level of peoples' collective awareness and uniting. Only a united people with high enough level of collective awareness is able to recognize wise, honest and religious patriots and elect them members of the government who won't steal and manipulate the people, and instead they will execute indiscriminating justice where the laws would apply not only to the mortals but also to the politicians and the rich ones. Only a people's government consisted of wise and truly honest and religious patriots won't become corrupted and will be a true service of the citizens who will never more be robbed whereas all what have been stolen from them by the previous politicians in power and all the other hoodlums will be returned to them, and all the necessary steps will be taken these scoundrels to be sentenced to appropriate prison terms.

The capitalist social system is the generator of the ever lesser percentage of rich people and the bigger percentage of poor people who continuously become poorer. The pronounced material differences are the essential reason for the immense, quickly growing number of cases of homicides, suicides and other kinds of crime, prostitution, intimate friendships or marriages made of material interest, and for the increasingly pronounced alienation between the people who are more and more like bloodthirsty beasts and unemotional machines. Because of the poverty or the greed for money and the envy to the rich people, the people who have weaker ego very easily become faithful servants of the shrewd one (the devil) in the realization of his destructive intentions whose end goal is to inflict as much as possible evil and destruction of the happiness and the life to as many people as possible. The excessive ego not only makes the people unhappy poisoning them with the spiritual venoms of its manifestations (greed, envy, vindictiveness, anger, wrath, hate, malice and so on), but also imprisons their souls which way they become incapable of giving unconditional love and help, and this has direct influence in undermining interpersonal relations and losing the purpose of a human's existence on this planet. The psychology of the minds of the people captured by their excessive ego and being in the devil's claws, reminds of a distorted mirror for the depraved peoples' criterions on human values. In the process of evaluating men, the majority of women put in the first place their material values (how rich they are), instead of their subjective values (how pretty, smart, experienced, intelligent, moral they are); and what concerns men, the most important criterion to them is a woman's physical beauty, whereas their spiritual, moral and material values are much less important or unimportant at all.

We live in a devilish time where love is decreasingly present in the friendships and especially in the marriages which, because of the increasing number of divorces, lose the purpose of their existence, where sex with beautiful women costs men more and more, some of them even losing everything they have, including their lives, only for the sake of that damn lust for sex with beautiful women's bodies. When it lasts for a longer period of time, everything abnormal becomes normal to the majority of the people. The abnormal reality becomes omnipresent, where men of quality who are not rich enough can have sex with a beautiful woman only for a period measured by stopwatch i.e. only with a prostitute, whereas marriage with a pretty woman is only a fiction for them. All who are reading this book can be completely sure that in the future they are going to rarely see marriages between beautiful women and men of quality who are not rich enough. In other words, we live in a satanic time where love is less and less present in the interpersonal relations and where women's beauty is on sale as any other commodity on the market. Consequently, the men are in position of bidders at an auction of women' beauty, which means every man who has a lot of money and offers the highest price can buy a particular beautiful woman, no matter how old, intelligent, experienced, moral or pretty he is. For the average human mind, it becomes quite normal the otherwise abnormal thing, when one sees a beautiful woman of appropriate age, to suppose that if she is married, her husband must be a rich man. The irony of human stupidity in all that becomes even bigger when most of the people make mockery of the beautiful woman married of real love, not of material benefit, to a man who is not rich, considering her an idiot instead of treating with the utmost respect. In the time of our grandparents and grand-grandparents, marriages were often arranged by the mediation of matchmakers where it was usual the future spouses not to have seen each other before, or by making a marital contract between the bride's and the groom's parents, and even so the results were much better than in today's marriages, that is – in these marriages there were more children and harmony, and less divorces. All of us who are now adult persons, have grown up with the phrase used even in some pieces of poetry that love cannot be bought for money, but as the time passes, neither love nor marriages are going to exist, and this will bring an end to the existence of the entire humanity. If the marriage is the basic element (cell) of every society, and is successful, than the whole society is going to be successful and will function more quickly and more efficiently and develop in all the fields of human life. In order to be sound, productive and with high standards of living, the society must have as many as possible sound social cells (marriages, i.e. families). How beautuful and just the world will be for all the lonely hearts on this planet, if they have the chance to be permanently happy in a conjunction with an appropriate person in a long-lasting intimate or marital relationship.

In these bad times of disordered system of human values and increasing alienation, hate and evil, and less love and happiness, most of the people are hungry for information and techniques for achieving better health and success, and bigger joy and longer-lasting happiness in their lives. These people are trying to satisfy that hunger through reading various kinds of books and attending all kinds of trainings, courses and lectures. Exactly for this reason I have written this book – a scientific work conceived as a manual for the whole lifetime and intended to all the present and future generations, which is abundant in truths, principles and ideas on how to become healthier, more successful and happier in your mandate of existence. This work is so designed and composed, so that not to burden the reader with either the terminology used or its volume, and has been written in a colloquial, simple language understandable to every reader of any intelectual level. This is a universal handbook intended for a wider circle of readers interested in knowing the truth, and the right steps in establishing quality interpersonal relations. It is a scientific work and an original piece of literature of cultural and edicational character, and has a universal importance, cosmic dimensions and timeless truths useful to all the present and future generations in the world. This work is not only a piece of scientific literature, but it is also a handbook for every person of any age and, for the difference from the books, novels and poetry which are only transient pleasures, is abundant in life truths, practical pieces of advice and ideas intended to help the readers make their lives be longer, more successful, happier and with more meaning. You can easily see that the book is very unique and original, since the lots of facts, answers and truths contained in it are a result of the author's many-year analytical research and practical life experience, as well as of the intuitively acquired information from the universal intelligence. This book is intended to a wider circle of readers interested in getting acquainted with the truth and the right steps in the process establishing quality interpersonal relations. In this book, the author gives as a gift to all the current and future readers a multitude of right pieces of advice, ideas and solutions for achieving better-quality interpersonal relations and bigger joy in everyday life. Through universal truths originating from the real life, the readers of this book will have the opportunity to become aware of various illusions and prejudices in the interpersonal relations, which most often, at unconscious level, make an obstacle to the people in achieving happier and longer life. This book would be of bigger practical value if it becomes available (through buying, giving as a present, lending) to a bigger as possible number of readers who will read, underdstand and implement in their lives the truths presented and, what is more important – will convey these truths to other people, in the first place to their children or grandchildren, preferably while they are still at a very young age. The book is a reminiscence in the quest for knowledge, happiness and everything else we have lost, but becomes increasingly important as the years pass by. The book is abundant in wise timeless truths, useful ideas and pieces of advice which are read and re-read the entire lifetime, and that's why it is recommendable to be present in as many homes as possible throughout the world, as a useful handbook for all the generations.

The purpose of this book is to satisfy the needs and the tastes even of the most fastidious readers. The author's idea is with this book to help the readers icrease their knowledge and help them in resolving their problems brought about by the unpredictable time and life. His goal is, through the universal truths from the real life, given in this book, to help the readers become able of recognizing all the illusions and prejudices in the interpersonal relations, which most often, at unconscious level, impede the people in achieving happier and loger life.

The largest portion of the truths given in this book are in fact information obtained from the universal intelligence, most often in the morning hours, in an intuitive way, in the form of different thoughts emerging one after another, later linked in chains and then assembled in a mosaic the author has been composing for years after that. Since nothing is by chance (senseless and without its own reason) in the Universe, neither the information donated by the Universe nor the book itself came accidentally into existence. The author decided to write down these truths obtained as a flood of pieces of mental information, so that they would not go away irretrievably, for in a short time after they had appeared they disappeared like soap bubbles. The interesting thing in it was that every morning when the author was writing down those pieces of information (truths) from the Universe, just after they had appeared, new ones appeared also on the same topic, and this process lasted for hours. Since these timeless truths had been obtained as a gift from the Universe, the author felt that his duty was to transfer them as a present to as many readers as possible in this beautiful world, through this book. After many years of patient work, the author managed to compose the mosaic of truths, ideas, pieces of wisdom and pieces of advice useful for the success and happiness of all the readers born or who will be born on this planet. The author's motive and inspiration for making his many-year piece of intellectual work originates from his complete belief and experience that this literary creation will be in fact the entrance of his spirit into the dimensions of eternity. The book is a mosaic made of a wide spectrum of truths, ideas and pieces of advice, which are in fact the speech of the author's spirit and soul. This original and universal literary work does not burden the reader, since it has been written in a simple, colloquial language understandable to every spiritual level of readers.

All of you, the readers, who will have the honour and the privilege to read this scientific, philosophic and psychologic book of practical use, will be able not only to increase your level of awareness of the cognized timeless truths, practical pieces of advice and pieces of wisdom, but also to become more successful, healthier and happier, with a longer mandate for your existence. This many-year scientific piece of work, as a practically useful and educative book, will surely spur a large interest and receive positive critics not only from the domestic, but also from the foreign public. Those who will completely and with full concentration understand the essence and the truthfulness of this book, are going to experience an exciting journey to the higher dimensions of awareness.

The biggest wish of the author of this book full of timeless, universal and educative truths, is the book to be printed in as many as possible world languages, so that as many as possible readers throughout the world will be able to acquire it only at a symbolic price (which will be just enough for covering the printing costs) and have it in their homes as a permanent handbook for themselves and the next generations in the family. For that goal, the author's intention is the money earned from the copies sold to be invested in a new cycle of printing, so that after several cycles there would be enough finance for translating the book into English language and then in other world languages, all that with the end goal as many people in the world as possible to have the opportunity to read it. This way we – the author, who has invested huge efforts in writing the book, and you – the readers who have bought the book, will together contribute for spreading the positive energy, love, happiness and, in the first place – scientific truths, among as many as possible people throughout the world.

The author's biggest reward for the invested many-year labour is as bigger as possible number of readers to get the chance to read this book and, above all – to help them make their lives more successful, prettier and happier. The author's most important benefit from this original book is not the glory or the material profit, but the fact that the book is the ticket which is going to take him, i.e. his spirit and soul, into eternity. There is no bigger satisfaction and happiness for the soul than the notion that you create something very useful to all the next generations, and the creation which is going to take you to the eternity would finally come out better than you have imagined initially. It is same as the person has never existed, if he/she doesn't have own creations and deeds. The rare genius minds, because of their highly developed intuition i.e. direct link with the universal intelligence (the total knowledge and all the existing information in the Universe) have the credit for all the scientific discoveries, inventions and technological achievements which make peoples' lives simpler and more joyful. Only the rare wise minds with high level of spiritual awareness have the privilege, through the intuitive information acquired and the constructive analyses done from the aspect of the general perception of the peoples' majority, to get close to the absolute truths which have always been and will always be inaccessible to the average human mind. The wise geniuses are not selfish or with excessive ego, and that's why they gladly give the cognized timeless truths as a present to the other people and the next generations, through their spoken or written word and above all through their creations useful to the mankind, thus accomplishing their exceptional role and purpose of existence on this planet. The cunning devil never sleeps and in all possible ways suggestively destructively influences the minds of people, all with the ultimate goal of directly influencing or destroying as many human lives on the planet as possible through his obedient servants (evil people and Satanists). So be careful what books you read, what music you listen to and most importantly what people you hang out with or are in an intimate relationship with.

It would be a very sad thing if the author's highly educative books are read and understood only by a small number of very intelligent readers, for in such case his main goal – through timelless and educative truths to enlighten the majority of the people in the world and thus save it of the self-destruction desired by the devil.

The book "THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH" is a wonderful gift which can be given for or without some special occasion, and it is desirable to be present in every home as an useful handbook for all the generations.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

– A book about interpersonal relations –

1. Influence of the freedom on interpersonal relations
1.1. Freedom of the spirit
1.2. Freedom of the body
1.3. Freedom of the soul
1.4. Time freedom
1.5. Financial freedom
1.6. The standard of living (economic power) rules the freedom of the people
1.7. Real love frees, illusory love imprisons
1.8. Tying to the source of happiness is a lost freedom

2. Influence of the true legal state on the interpersonal relations
2.1. True democracy, not DEMONcracy or demagogy
2.2. How to get to true democracy for the people
2.3. Truly independent judiciary

3. Influence of the social system on the interpersonal relations
3.1. Interpersonal relations in capitalist countries
3.2. Interpersonal relations in socialist countries
3.3. Some ideas on how to get to a justier social and political system
3.4. Combined socialist and capitalist system

4. Influence of the globalists (satanists) on the interpersonal relations
4.1. The new world order dangerous for the majority of the world's population
4.2. The TV reality show – a prologue to the life after globalization

5. Influence of the government on the interpersonal relations
5.1. The government produces wars
5.2. Forms of government
5.3. Common characteristics of every government
5.4. Characteristics of the politicians in the government
5.5. About the might and magic of government
5.6. Doing politics is the most profitable profession
5.7. The politicians and the rich people are the biggest servants of the Satan (devil)
5.8. The multi-party elections are not truly democratic (fair)
5.9. A draft of system laws for the good of the people
5.10. What kind of politicians the people needs in the government
5.11. The artificial intelligence will rule the world i.e. the people
5.12. Only the wise people can save the world

6. Influence of the material differences on the interpersonal relations
6.1. The paradise on Earth will become when there will be no material differences

7. Influence of the money on interpersonal relations

8. Influence of the crime and corruption on the interpersonal relations
8.1. Corruption in the government
8.1.1. How to eradicate corruption in the government
8.2. Corruption in the judiciary
8.3. Corruption in the health-care system
8.4. Curruption in the education
8.5. Corruption in the administration
8.6. The institutions in charge of prosecuting criminals are prone to corruption
8.7. Some practical ideas how to eliminate crime and corruption
8.8. Some ideas about passing laws which will be useful for the people

9. Influence of the prostitution's legalization on the interpersonal relations

10. Verbal and non-verbal communication in the interpersonal relations
10.1. Verbal communication
10.2. Non-verbal communication
10.3. Problems in verbal and non-verbal communications
10.4. Styles of communication
10.5. Positive principles for communication with people
10.6. The lie is the most dangerous thing in the verbal communication
10.7. The truth is the greatest present in the verbal communication
10.8. Types of truth
10.8.1. Subjective or objective truth
10.8.2. Absolute or relative truth
10.8.3. Individual or collective truth
10.9. Sincerity is the most important thing in the verbal communication
10.10. Trust and faith are the most important things in the interpersonal relations
10.11. Criticizing and insulting are not the same thing
10.12. Stupid people always get angry when they are criticized

11. Influence of the excessive ego on the interpersonal relations

12. Influence of the religion on the interpersonal relations

13. Unconditional love is the super-glue in the interpersonal relations

14. Let's save the world from self-destruction

15. Absurds in the interpersonal relations

THROUGH HELL FOR THE POOR TO HEAVEN FOR THE RICH

AUTHOR`BIGRAPHY

Sazdo Stanojkovic – Sasho

I was born in Skopje in 1965 in a happy unforgettable and unique time, in a happy family filled with great love from my wonderful parents and in a beautiful country called Yugoslavia under the leadership of the greatest world statesman of all time - the president and marshal Josip Broz Tito. I spent my youth in a socialist society where there were no major material differences where most people were much happier than now, where love in friendships, love and marriage was much more prevalent than in the current capitalist so-called demo (n) cratic society. I graduated from high school and then from the Faculty of Electrical Engineering in Skopje, and I served my military service in the Yugoslav People's Army in Belgrade. In this book, a wide spectrum of interpersonal relations is shown from psychological, sociological, pedagogical, philosophical, religious and political aspect, which make the basis for strengthening the love in friendships, marriages, families and otherwise among the people, so that the human life would get sense and many unhappy moments it brings would be avoided. We live in a time of deviancy and disordered system of criterions about human values, where the money and material goods are of top importance and are the primary criterion for evaluating a person's quality, especially when it comes to the issue of choosing a new friend or the future spouse. The essential message of this book's author to its readers is that humanity can elude self-destruction only by achieving high enough level of peoples' collective awareness and uniting. This book is a wonderful gift which can be given for or without some special occasion, and it is desirable to be present in every home as an useful handbook for all the generations.